Professor:

Dear colleagues, students and future co-workers in science.
I am glad that you all have applied for this amazing scientific project.
I have received 56 student applications of which I will now choose only 2.
(a moment of surprise)
And I am pleased to announce that our team have selected two successful candidates Thomas McLochman and Peggy Smith.
Their projects are logical and good. They have also managed to find their science leader who will guide them through that.
Congratulation.
